

英雄伝説

The Legend of Heroes
Gagharv trilogy

A tribute to memories of my childhood

子供の頃に

Prelude

The Gagharv
ガガーブの世界

Once upon a time, Bardus, the god of light, and Octum, the god of darkness, are the twins of one supreme god. Their coexistence creates Durga, the god of spirits and mother of land. A battle between Bardus and Octum results in resulting in Octum being locked up in the Sealed Land. Shortly after, Bardus and Durga also fall into sleep. Human comes to play.

An epic battle between a giant and a monstrous snake. The Giant finally killed the snake and the snake's torso formed the land and his skeleton formed the largest mountains "Backbones of the Greatserpent" dividing the land into north and south. The south is now known as Welthuna".

the "Blue Tribe" develops the concept of the Resonance Spells. With the power of Resonance Spells they start a flourishing civilization centered in Welthuna. They also discovered the existence of "Another World". Many ancient literature, ruins, and portals are believed to be created and built at that time as vestiges of the advanced civilization. The power of Resonance Spells are also believed to be summoned through melodies.

However, the Resonance Spells not only summon magic, but also materialize negative emotions. Fear, Sadness, Greed, "The Harmful Frequency" is later confirmed and the use of Resonance Spells is banned. The "Blue Tribe" built Viola Ruhm and used a part of the Harmful Frequencies to transfer an aggregate of Harmful Frequencies to Another World. But the resonance of "Harmful Frequency" caused major explosion, which formed "Gaghav", the deepest and biggest valley. At the end, the main tribe moved to "Another World" to watch the transferred Harmful Frequencies, now called "Otherworldly Moon". The remaining Harmful Frequencies are locked up and sealed in Selbart, in Ohstern, known as "The Dark Sun". "The Blue Tribe" hence disappeared in the history, Rumors call them "The Undersea Tribe" for their sudden disappearance.

Fugue

A Tear of Vermillion

朱紅い雫

hundreds of years later, Octum's Apostles attacked the Cathedral built by Bardus's followers trying to catch the Eimelle, the Durga's Daughter, the gods' only representative who could summon the gods. Eimelle and her brother, Avin, escaped from the attack but went separated for years. Hidden and raised by the Sage Lemuras, Avin went on a journey with his friend Mile to find his younger sister 8 years later when he turned 16.

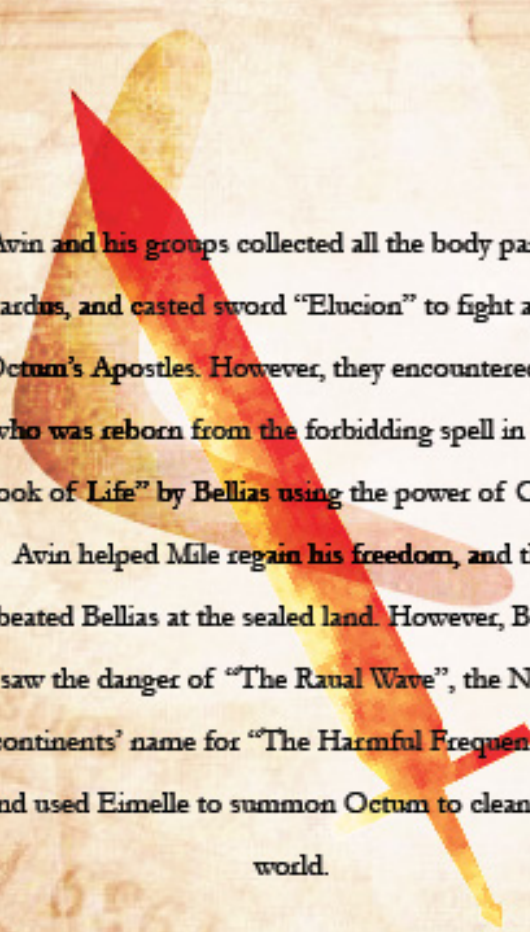

IX

Soon, Avin and Mile were spotted and watched by the Octum's Apostles. When Avin and Mile finally met Eimelle, Bellias, Master of the Octum's Apostles, caught Eimelle and killed Mile. Avin was saved by Rutice, the Octum's Apostle who struggled for redemption and left the committee, and Sage Gawaine. They together started to collect body parts of Bardus to fight the Octum's Apostles.

X

Avin and his groups collected all the body parts of Bardus, and casted sword "Elucion" to fight against Octum's Apostles. However, they encountered Mile who was reborn from the forbidding spell in "The Book of Life" by Bellias using the power of Octum.

Avin helped Mile regain his freedom, and they beated Bellias at the sealed land. However, Bellias saw the danger of "The Raul Wave", the North continents' name for "The Harmful Frequencies", and used Eimelle to summon Octum to cleanse the world.

Avin, Mile and their friends finally beated Octum with the help of Elucion, the sword of Bardus, and saved Eimelle. However, Mile died without the power from Octum. At last, Eimelle summoned Durga. Durga responded to Avin's faith and helped Avin bring back Mile. Bardus, Octum, and Durga fell into sleep again...

However, aware of the existence of the Raul Wave, Avin and Mile, with their friends Michel and Thomas, decided to build the best ship and went to other continents.

Comedy

Song of the Ocean

海の檻歌

As the hometown to “The Undersea Tribe”, Weltluna is the land of music. As legend says, there were once a tribe living underwater, of which the people are all musicians and able to use magic with their melody. However, the melody was lost along with the disappearance of the tribe. Hundreds of years after, the genius musician Leone from Weltluna was said to reproduce the lost melody as “The Water Melody”. He divided the melody into twenty-four parts and engraved each onto a stone to prevent the misuse. The stones are known as “the Resonance Stone”. After that, Leone’s whereabouts remains unknown.

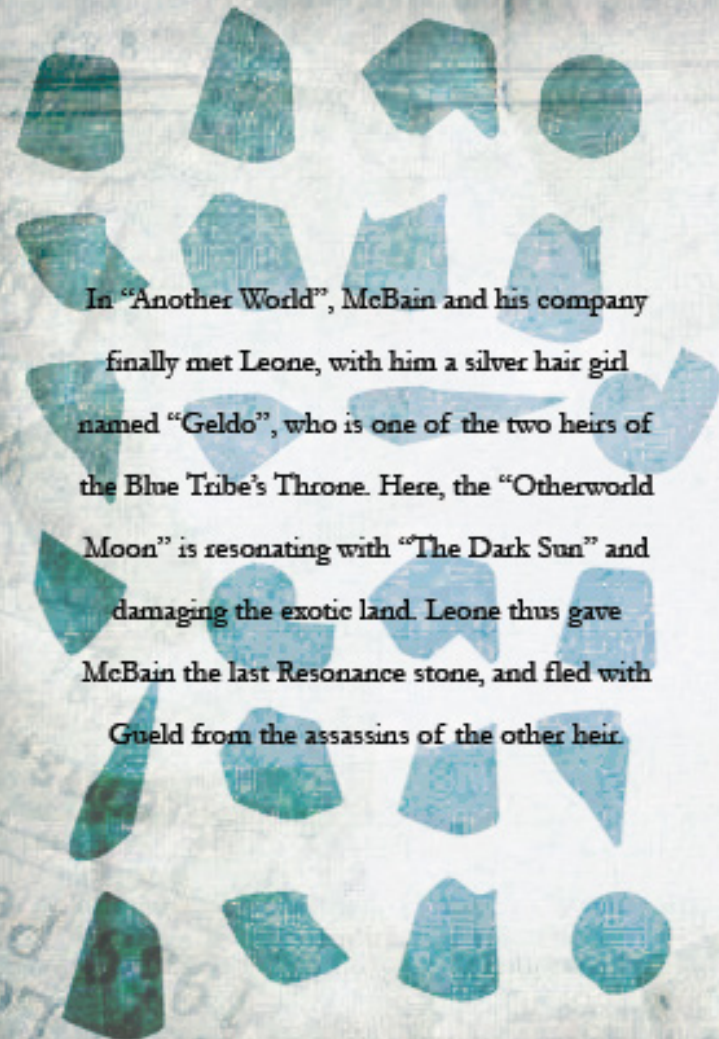

McBain, who once met Leone during his youth, decided to find the Resonance Stones with his grandchild Forte, Forte's friend Una, and their dog John and mouse Rick. McBain, the harpist, Forte, the guitarist, Una, the Piccoloist, and John and Rick, the jugglers, started their journey to find the hidden stones, as well as their music performance tour.

On their journey they met Aria, descendant of "The Blue Tribe", who is also the heir of the Lost Melody, and the Zenon tribe, which is the guardian of "The Dark Sun". Unfortunately, the Dark Sun was reactivated by the Numeros Emperor. To save the world, the company decided to find all the Resonance Stone and Viola Ruhm to offset "The Harmful Frequencies" as the ancient tribe did. On their way to the last Resonance Stone, they discovered the portal to "Another World" on the Rect Island.

In "Another World", McBain and his company finally met Leone, with him a silver hair girl named "Geldo", who is one of the two heirs of the Blue Tribe's Throne. Here, the "Otherworld Moon" is resonating with "The Dark Sun" and damaging the exotic land. Leone thus gave McBain the last Resonance stone, and fled with Guelde from the assassins of the other heir.

McBain finally completed "The Water Melody", and successfully empowered the Viola Ruhm. However, the Burodains, the guardians of Viola Ruhm and the descendants of "The Blue Tribe", attempted to avenge their ancestors and cognates in Another World by transferring the Dark Sun to Another World. The resonance and collision of the Dark Sun and the Otherworldly Moon was strong enough to destroy both worlds. Aria, the heir of the Lost Melody, was finally rescued by McBain, and Mitchell who came from El Phildin. She sang the Lost Melody to power the Viola Ruhm, and finally offset the entire Dark Sun. The crisis ends, but not the danger of Resonance Spell, and the Otherworldly Moon.

McBain finally resolved the crisis, but not the danger of Resonance Spell, and the Otherworldly Moon. To prevent potential danger, McBain gave Mitchell the Resonance Stones, from which he made the Silver Dagger. That ends the journey of McBain and his company, and the legend of heroes in Welthana, but the journey of seeking peace for the world has not...

XIX

Finale

Prophecy of the Moonlight Witch

白き魔女

This is the last of the sagas of an age when men believed that there was no world either beyond Gagharv or where the backbone of the Great
Serpent reached its spiny end.

In that distant era this land, called Tirasweel, was divided among the eight nations of Pholthia, Menarth, Chanom, Ambisch, Udor, Oldos,
Phenthe, and Ghidona.

The seeds of danger had been planted in several of these realms, but as yet the people still went about their daily pursuits in peace and prosperity.

Myth, epic, fable.... Wherever men gather and dwell, there arise legends that lurk in the shadows
of the age in which they live.

The tale of the White Witch who wandered from land to land twenty years before was one such legend.

"Her silver hair shines in the moonlight

Her blue eyes clear as springs

Dark till dawn, wind till snow,

Everywhere she goes,

*the silver hair girl with her tranquil gaze,
casts her prophecy to the turbulent future,*

Swirl from even the calmest ripple,

A witch she is born ever since,

People sing her for her prophecy of goodness,

curse her for her admonition of disaster,

they call her "The White Witch",

At the time no church was built,

No magic was commonly understood,

She a mystery one wonders,

Fear one trembles,

Not long after, she disappears,

With no sign of her whereabouts,

Only Magic Mirrors in every shrine,

And tradition of pilgrimage tour..."

Year 992, the time Isabelle the Queen, and Revas the Astrologer rule, Jucio and Chris start their pilgrimage tour in Tirasweel, Grandpa Rapp gave them a silver dagger and a scepter as gifts. They started their journey, visiting shrines across the country. Deane, Tegura, Lgunis, Shifool, Oldos, every shrine they went, they saw their hints from the Magic Mittor in the shrine, and foresaw the danger of the country, and "The Raul Wave".

Jucio and Chris decided to rescue the imprisoned Durzel, the bodyguard of the White Witch Geldo, and the owner of Esperancer, "The Elucion" sword. He revealed that the White Witch visited Tirasweel twenty years ago to find ways to cleanse the Otherworldly Moon and was killed by Revas for her status as the other heir of the Blue Tribe Throne, and the fact that Isabelle and Revas were planning to transfer the Otherworldly Moon back to the Gagharv land.

To stop Isabelle and Revas's scheme, they went to Geldo's grave and broke her seal to obtain Geldo's Scepter and Esperancer. They sneaked into Castle Ruodu, the Royal City, and defeated Revas and Isabelle. However, the Raul Wave from Another World was approaching. The Prophecy from the Magic Mirrors was about to happen.

XXV

At the end, the spirit of Geldo attached to the Geldo's Scepter appeared, and she used all of her power of kindness and love to cleanse the fear, sadness, and greed the Raul Wave emitted. She finally saved the world, and her existence withered away with the Harmful Frequencies.

The problems of the Blue Tribe and their civilization ends, henceforth the beginning of a new era.

XXVI

終わり
The End.